COUNTY NEWS.

Local Items of general interest to a majority of our readers, especially distant friends.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—Mail your items early so they will reach our office not later than Tuesday morning—Monday if possible. News received after that will not be published unless of unusual importance. Advertise no one's business, and write on one side of the paper only.

LANDSAY.

Several of the people of this section went to Gillme to church Sunday.

Roscoe Shackelford of Hazel Green, passed through here Monday on his way to his mill on Holly.

Died, Monday, the 28th inst., Mrs. James Buchanan. She will be buried at the Buchanan graveyard 10 o'clock, the 30th.

A Miss Sewell, a girl 15, gave a temperance lecture to a large audience at Murphy school house last Sunday. She did well.

Charles Rose, of Hazel Green, and New Maloney, Harry Murphy and Andrew Hughes of Maytown, are in this section buying cattle.

Robert Halsey, the farmer, mill man, blacksmith, hunter and, besides, a jolly good fellow around, will go back to Shackelford's mill this week.

Misses Lizzie, Sarah, Magie and Ota Conbs, and Ed Buchanan, Cleve Chambers, Grant Rice, W. H. Taylor and wife took dinner at E. T. Kish's Sunday.

Joe Landrum, who has been in Illinois or some time, returned to his family last week. He says he will remove his family to that place in the near future.

A great deal of sickness in this neighborhood. Mrs. Ida Burchfield, Mrs. John Taulbee, the little child of Andrew Williams, and also the little child of Wm. Dalton have been very sick during the past week.

Hiram Swango and family were at Lanesaw one day last week, and he left with the writer the money for a renewal of his subscription to THE HERALD. He says they all like to read it, even to the last.

The board of trustees for this division met at Stillwater Saturday and elected the following teachers: K. M. Halsey, Harst school James Tester, Murphy; W. H. Jean, Landsaw; Geo. Carter, Behanan; Joe H. Geveden, Chambers; Roscoe Wells, Laurel, and Emma Wells, Trace.

SUSIE.

Life 100,000 Years Ago.

Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men, who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. Today the danger, as shown by A. W. Brown, of Alexandria, Me., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "suffering as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure sore lungs, colds, obstinate coughs, and prevent pneumonia, it's the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by all dealers. Trial bottle free.

STAMPER BRANCH.

David Coldiron was a guest of Fred Stamper Sunday.

A Night Rider's Raid.

The worst night riders are calomel, croton oil or aloes pills. They raid your bed to rob you of rest. Not so with Dr. King's New Life Pills. They never distress or inconvenience, but always cleanse the system, curing colds, headache, constipation, malaria. 25c all dealers.

MURPHY FORK.

Services were held at the Public Square schoolhouse Sunday. Rev. J. R. Legg did the preaching.

Miss Nannie Alice Motley, of near Ezel, while riding near her home, had the misfortune of being thrown from her horse, breaking one of her wrists. Dr. Motley dressed the injured part.

Mrs. Virgie Perkins and brother Clarence, of Fills branch, spent Saturday and Sunday on the creek. Mrs. Virgie as the guest of Miss Nora Pieratt and Clarence—well, he went farther up the line.

The board of school trustees in this district met at Pekin last week and appointed John Murphy as trustee in the Ben Murphy district and employed Miss Mollie Coldiron as teacher, fully convinced that she will give universal satisfaction.

An organ recital came off Sunday at the home of Ben Murphy. Among those who played and sang select gems was Mrs. Lizzie Cecil, who won the honor in some Gilmore creek selections. Come again, Mrs. Cecil, you are always welcome at the organ.

It seems that the devil was let loose on the creek Saturday night, and heavy artillery firing rent the midnight air. After ammunition run out the human battleships moved away and next morning Dr. Harry Murphy found that one of his valuable dogs had received a shell or two in the body during the "hot old time."

Tortured On a Horse.

"For ten years I couldn't ride a horse without being in torture from piles," writes L. S. Napier, of Russell, Ky., "when all doctors and other remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me." Infallible for piles, burns, scalds, cuts, boils, fever sores, eczema, salt rheum, corns. 25c. Guaranteed by all dealers.

Man has been attending horse races for thousands of years and will probably continue to do so centuries after the automobile shall have been succeeded by some other wonderful invention. The horseless age will never appear if its coming is dependent on the automobile or any other inanimate invention supplanting the horse in the affections of the people. The beauty of his limbs, his arched neck and quivering nostrils, his haughty movements, all appeal to the eye today even as they did thousands of years ago. Men with sufficient funds to gratify their pleasures will continue to pay fabulous prices for horses until the end of time.

Found Starving in a Barn.

Inez, Ky., June 28.—Mrs. Lula Patrick, wife of Hays Patrick, and her two children, an infant of less than a month and a two-year-old boy, were found starving today in the cow barn of K. F. Price, near the residence section of the city. The woman said she had been in the place four days without food. County Judge Kirk turned over mother and infant to Mrs. Jane Coffee, Matron of the County Infirmary, and the boy was taken by his uncle, Jesse Patrick, who lives here.

Mrs. Patrick tells the following story: "My husband's father was opposed to our marriage, which took place six years ago. For this reason he would not permit me to visit him, and I in turn would not allow my husband to go to see his father. Last week my father-in-law died, and my husband asked my permission to go to see his father. I told him that, since his father had not sent for either of us, I did not suppose he was anxious for us to come. My husband told me that he had not been in his father's house for six years, and that he intended to go. 'If you go you need not return,' I told him.

"I did not think he would go, as he has always obeyed me. I suppose he has taken me at my word since I have not seen him since his father was buried. We were poor folks and had but a few meals ahead.

"I stayed at home as long as I had a morsel, and decided that I would rather die than beg. Four days ago I came to this barn with my children, and since that time we have had nothing to eat or drink.

Patrick, it is said, went to Paintsville to obtain work, but left word that he did not intend to return to his wife. Patrick's father was Rev. M. Patrick, who died a few days ago at his home, on Front street. He was for 10 years pastor of the Baptist church here.

$100 REWARD! $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Judge Taulbee's Narrow Escape.

Jackson, Ky., June 24.—County Judge S. S. Taulbee narrowly escaped being shot to death while in a difficulty with John and Norman McCoy near his lumber yard in South Jackson yesterday afternoon, according to testimony in the Police Court this morning.

The McCoy's were tried before Judge Cardwell on the charge of banding themselves together and going armed for the purpose of injuring Judge Taulbee. The trouble arose over a disputed payment for work done by the McCoy's.

Judge Taulbee stated to the court that John McCoy seized and held him and called on the younger McCoy to shoot him, which he was only prevented from doing by the timely arrival of Matt Privitt, who threatened to burst McCoy's head with a stone if he drew his pistol. The men were held to answer the charge to the grand jury. They are related to the famous Pike county McCoy's of feud fame.

Drinks as Men Killers.

A distinguished Kentucky physician is quoted as saying that in Kentucky for every one death from whisky 1,000 deaths have been caused by impure milk; that for every single death produced by whisky drinking there have been 5,000 deaths from contaminated water. The doctor prefaced his remarks with the hope that he would not be misunderstood or misrepresented.—New York Press.

For Sale—Two of the Pieratt cottages for less than the lumber and lot can be bought. One acre in each lot; five rooms in each house. Apply at this office.

THE LAND OF KENTUCKY.

"Know'st thou the land where the corn tassels bloom,
Where the mystical cocktail exhales its perfume,
Where the highballs sparkle with a flavor divine,
And the schooners sail fast 'neath the shade of the vine?
Know'st thou that land, that beautiful land?
"Know'st thou the land where the julep was born,
Where the mint yields its breast to the spirit of corn,
Where the ice strikes the glass with a musical sound,
And the straw shrieks aloud when the bottom is found?
Know'st thou that land, that beautiful land?
"Hear'st thou the call of the Blue Grass to thee,
'Come over the river, come Southward to me,
Where a welcome awaits from Kentucky's old boys,
Oh, come to that Southland and taste of her joys?
Oh, come to that land, that beautiful land!
"Know'st not that land? Then 'thou art unlucky.
'Tis gallant, 'tis brave, 'tis hearty Kentucky,
That calls from the river that flows to the sea,
'Come Southward to meet us, cross over and see.'
Oh, come to that land, that beautiful land."
—Lexington Herald.

Why Go to College?

We are often asked, should a young man or woman go to college? Now-a-days the thing of going to college or not, is in the air. We hear it discussed a great deal and hear many arguments both for and against a college course. As to the propriety of it let it be said that it all depends on so many circumstances that a direct answer is impossible. That every young man or woman should go to college is just as nonsensical as that no one should go at all. Real genius is independent of all conditions, and hence some of the world's greatest men never entered a college door. Such was the case of Abraham Lincoln. It always seems to us that a college education would have spoiled him and crippled his rare genius. But all such men have a training of some kind and equal to a college education.

But on the other hand all other things being equal, a college education is necessarily of great value. Because a few or even many college graduates are "asses" is no argument against the college. The college cannot change the nature of men or women. If they go into college as impracticables they will as a rule come out the same. A college develops, but does not create. It is an artificial institution and not a supernatural one. The question of going to college or not can only be solved by knowing the man or woman, the college and the circumstances incident to the case. Here, as in all cases, every tub must stand on its own bottom. Individuality must be consulted. Many persons will not take an education any more than some coarse rough stones will not take a polish. To attempt to educate them is to throw away time and money. It is to encourage false ambitions and to breed disappointments. On the contrary, supposing the possession of a good mind and character, there is nothing that can add to its power and usefulness like a college education. Here the mind is taught to work. The foundation may be laid for all future growth and development. A college education of the right kind and in the care of the right person is capital invested and well invested. It is not simply a money investment but also a mind and heart investment and brings pleasure and enjoyment to all the subsequent life. Hence go to college, if at all possible.

Newspaper men, as a rule, have but two things to sell—space and subscription—and it would be just as consistent to ask your grocer for a dozen oranges "just to fill up" as to ask the editor for a dozen lines in his paper just to boost your business in helping to "fill up" space. The getting a free dinner at the hotel and to make a show of business for the hotel.—The Naumee Advertiser

Biggest Farm on Earth.

The American Farmer contains the following account of the Rankin farm above St. Joe, the largest farm in the world:

"Nearly forty years ago an Illinois farmer discovered that land on one side of a state line was selling at $20 an acre, while he might buy any amount on the other side of the imaginary dividing mark for less than a third of that amount. Real estate men told the farmer that no railroad would ever go near the Missouri land, but he sold his farm in Illinois and bought all he could of the land at $6 per acre.

"Not long ago David Rankin, who is the man that bought the cheap acreage, took an inventory of his possessions in the neighborhood of Tarkio, Mo. The inventory showed 25,640 acres, 12,000 fattening hogs, 9,000 cattle, 8,000 horses, more than 100 cottages in which the employees of the big farm were housed, great quantities of farm machinery and the like.

"The total figures up to something like $4,000,000 in value. That didn't include the 1,000,000 bushels of corn produced annually, or the 50 miles of tiling and ditches, some of which had been draining the marshlands of 40 years ago.

"They say I'm the biggest farmer in the world," says Rankin, "and I guess it's true. Lots of men have more land than I, but they use it for cattle ranges only. Mine is a farm."

"Rankin never raises cattle or furnishes range. He buys the raw steers from the plains, and fattens them, until worth twice what he pays for the feeders, as they are called. He never sells corn, because by feeding it to cattle, according to a minute calculation of his own, he gets more ample returns. It is forty miles from the nearest to the most distant part of his farm.

"Mr. Rankin is Scotch-Irish. He was born in Indiana in rural poverty. He made his start trading a colt for calves, and raising the latter into steers. Today he owns an implement factory, a municipal water system, a telephone company, a bank and other enterprises in addition to his farm."

THE RAINBOW COLORS.

See How Many You Can Distinguish and What They Are.

How many colors are there in the rainbow, or, what is the same thing, how many can one make out in the light that has come through a diamond, a piece of cut glass or the beveled edge of a mirror? The books, of course, say seven. But how many people really do see three different shades of blue as distinct on one side of the green as are the red, orange and yellow on the other? By no means everybody, we may be sure, although, on the other hand, it is known that certain sorts of ants, when they look at the rainbow, see only the sky where we see the red band, while, to make up for it, they see next to the violet, on the other side of the bow, one or two colors invisible to us.

Now, if there are rainbow colors which men do not see at all, and if some people make out only six colors where others distinguish seven, because they are blind to one of the three shades of blue, one might guess that there would be people somewhere in the world who would be able to find no more than five different colors or perhaps only four. There really is reason for thinking that this is the case. The early Greeks had no word for blue, and Gladstone always maintained that it was because they could not see blue. Moreover, it seems to be a general rule that where a language does not have words for red, yellow, green and blue the blue is always the one to be lacking, and travelers among the savage tribes in the interior of Borneo have reported them to be blue blind.

There are scientists who hold that ages ago men could see in the rainbow only red, orange, yellow and green, and that gradually, as they have progressed in other respects, they have added first greenish blue, then indigo, only lately violet, and will by and by add others still. As I write the sun, shining through the corner of my ink well, throws rainbow tints on the wall paper. I can distinguish only six colors, but I am an old fogey. You young people should be able to find seven. Can any of you get a hint of the eighth, which some day perhaps everybody will be able to see?—New York Herald.

Points About the Pulse.

The normal pulse has a wide range, but is always faster in females than males and steadily declines from birth to death. Eminent physicians have thought it possible to tell a person's sex and age from the pulse alone.

The average rate at birth is 160 beats a minute in girls and 150 in boys; at the age of four or five, 110 and 100; in maidens and youths, 95 and 90; in mature women and men, 80 and 75, and in elderly women and men, 60 and 50. In one recorded case the pulse of a healthy man of eighty-seven was only thirty a minute. The pulse varies with stature, position of body, exercise and health, and in disease it has been known to fall to fourteen a minute.—Chicago Journal.

Epitaph of Man Stung to Death.

Among the many curious inscriptions that are to be found on the tombstones that mark the last resting place of some of the early pioneers of the town of Manchester one of the most curious is in what is known as the old Greenhouse cemetery on a tombstone erected in 1814 to the memory of Timothy Ryan. On May 12, 1814, he was attacked by his bees and stung to death. The following epitaph appears on his tombstone:

A thousand ways cut short our days,
None is exempt from death.
A honeybee by stinging me
Did stop my mortal breath.
This grave contains the last remains
Of my frail house of clay;
My soul is gone, not to return,
To one eternal day.

Knew What Would Happen.

A southern lawyer tells of a case that came to him at the outset of his career wherein his principal witness was a darkey named Jackson, supposed to have knowledge of certain transactions not at all to the credit of his employer, the defendant. "Now, Jackson," said the lawyer, "I want you to understand the importance of telling the truth when you are put on the stand. You know what will happen, don't you, if you don't tell the truth?" "Yassir," was Jackson's reply. "In dat case I expects our side will win de case."—Kansas City Independent.

The Brute.

"What am I going to do, Harold?" called out a woman from the window of an apartment house to her husband, who stood on the stoop lighting his cigarette. "What shall I say to the landlord? He's coming around this afternoon for the last time, and you know it." "I will leave it to you, my dear," Harold replied blandly. "If you can bluff him as well as you do me you're all right."—New York Press.

The Cigarette Smoker.

Elbert Hubbard isn't the best authority in the world on all subjects, but he is unquestionably correct in pronouncing against the use of cigarettes, especially by the young. In a late number of the Philistine he says:

"As a close observer and employer of labor for over twenty-five years, I give you this: Never advance the pay of a cigarette smoker; never promote him; never trust him to carry a roll to Garcia, unless you do not care for Garcia, and are willing to lose the roll. Cigarette smoking begins with an effort to be smart. It soon becomes a pleasure, a satisfaction, and serves to bridge over a moment of nervousness or embarrassment. Next it becomes a necessity of life, a fixed habit. This last stage soon evolves into a third condition, a stage of fever and unrestful, wandering mind, accompanied by loss of moral and mental control." Inevitably cigarette smoking impairs health, lessens usefulness and jeopardizes happiness, and all without compensation worthy of the name. All smokers are not affected to the same degree, but there is none who would not be better off without the habit.

Prohibition and Near Beer.

The state of Georgia seems to be getting on very well with its prohibition. As much beer and that sort of stuff sell in Georgia as there ever was. The state last year got a revenue of $253,000 from near-beer saloons. The city of Savannah gets a $100 a month from each saloon and lets it go at that.

The state officials will introduce a bill at the next legislature to appoint a number of near-beer back tax collectors. The complaint is made that a number of people are selling near-beer without paying the license. It is hoped to get $500,000 when the back tax collectors get into action.

Everybody in Georgia seems to be very well satisfied with the prohibition law. The drinkers get all the booze they desire. The state gets as much revenue as it ever did. The prohibitionists have the law.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy.

The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an execution, No. 1509, directed to me, which issued from the clerk's office of the Wolfe Circuit court, in favor of Wm. Hobbs against Jesse Townsend, I, one of my deputies, will on MONDAY, the 5th Day of JULY, 1909, between the hours of 1 o'clock p. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., at the court house door in Campton, Wolfe county, Ky., expose to public sale, to the highest bidder, the following property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy plaintiff's debt, interest and costs, to-wit:

One tract of land bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at the water falls of the branch at the road near where J. C. Gilley lived, thence running easterly with the meanders of the cliff to John Bush's and J. P. Bush's old corner, thence up the branch with their line n. w. to John Bush's fence, n. w. with Delina Arnett's fence, thence southwestwardly with said fence to a new fence on top of the ridge, thence with said fence southwardly to the old field fence and top of the ridge, thence with the old field fence southwardly to the point or spur to a yellow pine tree, thence with said ridge or spur southwest to a small black oak at or near the road that leads up to Mrs. Bowman's, thence with said road southeastwardly to the beginning.

Leveled on as the property of Jesse Townsend.

Terms.—Sale will be made on a credit of six months, the purchaser to execute bond, with approved security, to have the force and effect of a replevin bond.

Witness my hand this 14th day of June, 1909.

J. W. COX,

Sheriff of Wolfe County.

By WALTER OLIVER, D. S.

To Taxpayers of Wolfe Co.

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that your State and County taxes for the year 1909 are NOW DUE and MUST be paid. This being the last year of my term as Sheriff, I will be required to settle promptly with the County and State and I must look to you to pay your taxes promptly. If payment is not duly made proper steps will be taken to enforce payment, so see me or one of my duly authorized deputies and pay AT ONCE. This will save you costs and me trouble.

Very respectfully yours,
J. W. COX, Sheriff.

Cure Your Dandruff

Why? Because it is annoying, untidy. And mostly, because it almost invariably leads to baldness. Cure it, and save your hair. Get more too, at the same time. All easily done with Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula. Stop this formation of dandruff!

Does not change the color of the hair.
Ask for it at the drug store.

The new Ayer's Hair Vigor will certainly do this work, because, first of all, it destroys the germs which are the original cause of dandruff. Having given this aid, nature completes the cure. The scalp is restored to a perfectly healthy condition.

THE HERALD.

DRINK WAINSCOTT'S BINA KOLA

Miss Stella Clark visited her mother Monday.

Mrs. Nannie Kash left Friday for Mt. Sterling.

Mrs. Charlie Hurst and family left Monday for Torrent.

The school at this place will open on Monday, July 2.

Our foreman is taking a two weeks' vacation to recreate and—

Misses Katherine and Myrtle Cecil spent Saturday and Sunday at Daysboro.

Miss Lula Nickell is spending this week with Mrs. W. E. Back, at Cannel City.

Henry Garrison, of Campton, was in town to deliver some pictures the other day.

Col. Jack Rittenhouse will raise a ten-foot U. S. flag on a 50 foot pole Sunday, July 4th.

Little Daisy McLin again has the thanks of our better seventeighths for a nice bouquet.

Mrs. Robert Cecil left Tuesday for the head of Red river to visit her daughters for awhile.

Mrs. Dick Lindon and daughter, Mrs. Halie Arnett, of Belknap, were visiting Aunt Eliza McNabb Friday.

Jas. Murphy and wife, of Valeria, were in town shopping Tuesday and had THE HERALD sent them one year.

R. J. McLin and two daughters, Misses Mary Roe and Monnie, are visiting relatives at Winchester and other points.

For Sale—A Victor graphophone with 36 records; will be sold for less than the cost of the records. Apply at this office.

Mrs. Squire Williams, colored, has the thanks of the editor and his better seven-eighths for some nice summer apples.

Mrs. Frank Elam has the thanks of the editor and his better seven-eighths for a fine mess each of new potatoes and string beans.

A six-months-old baby of Sewell Rose and wife died at their residence, on Stillwater, Sunday, and the remains were buried Monday.

The many friends of Mrs. J. B. Hollon, who has been confined to her room for several days, will be pleased to learn that she is able to be up and around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Crosby and son, Maysville; Mr. Adkins, Paintsville; Mr. Collier, Lexington; Mr. Cobb and daughter, Richmond; and some others are at Rittenhouse Ranch.

Mrs. Alice Creech, who recently visited in Oklahoma, and is now at home, will soon go back to the new state, and be accompanied by George and Miss Nettie Cox and perhaps others.

At a meeting of the trustees composing the school board for division No. 2 of Wolfe county, held at the store of Kash, Johnson & Kash, in Hazel Green, June 26, the following teachers were elected for the school year:

District No. 1—Daysboro, Rosa Coldiron.

No. 2—Rose Chapel, Mrs. Rebecca Russell.

No. 3—Johnson Schoolhouse, Maud McNabb.

No. 4—Hazel Green, Fa'ay Long and Nancy Mapel.

No. 6—Sandfield, John Taulbee.

No. 7—Big Branch, Troy Wilson.

No. 8—Clifty, Arthur Kash.

No. 9—Colored, Daysboro, Rose Burns.

Indications point to the fact that the Mountain Central Railroad, now running to Campton, will be extended. A deal in timber, which John Day recently financed, will afford that road not less than $25,000 in freight, and if he ever intends to build the road he will surely avail of this opportunity. It is also learned that parties interested are buying up all the timber along the proposed route, and there are other things leading to the conclusion that the road will be built and built without unnecessary delay. We have not talked with John Day, president of the road, but other people are watching movements of interested parties and they feel sure it will come inside of a year.

Wm. Sledd, of Mt. Sterling, and his nephew, Henry Bramblet, of Carlisle, are at Swango House drinking the water. Mr. Sledd is the Democratic candidate for sheriff of Montgomery county, which is equivalent to election. He was sheriff for three years and afterwards jailer for eight, which experience thoroughly qualifies for the place, and he is also quite popular wherever known.

Miss Sue Long and Will Hurt returned home Saturday from Hiram, Ohio, where they had been attending college this year. Of the six who attended Hiram College from H. G. A. two, John and Clayborne Johnson, will spend vacation in Oklahoma. Miss Della Legg will remain at Hiram and Miss Sue Long, Will Hurt and Mrs. Maud Kash returned to their home.

Dr. G. M. Center and wife, who have been visiting at Old Albuquerque, N. M. for a month past, returned home Friday, very much pleased with their outing. Dr. Center bought a house and lot in Albuquerque, with the view of occupancy some time.

Mrs. Telitha Parker, aged 90, died at her home in Mason county Saturday of general debility. She leaves a husband, eight children, 35 grandchildren and 33 great-grand children. This was the first death in the family during the past 65 years.

Miss Nancy Spencer, of Oklahoma, daughter of William Spencer, formerly of Breathitt county, and Wilbur Rowan, tie inspector for the Big Four, were married Wednesday of last week, June 23, at Lexington, and are now in Canada.

It is rumored that a party of surveyors are on the line between Hazel Green and Pomeroyton, but it is not known whether they are working on the McCauley line or the proposed line from Filson, on the L. & E.

When a man pursuing the daily peaceful avocations of life goes around with a revolver on his person, it is prima facie evidence that he is either a fool or a criminal, and in either case he ought to be locked up.

Lee Craven and a Mr. Booth, of Bourbon county, came in Tuesday, and yesterday morning Mr. Craven went to Campton to execute bond as executor of the estate of his deceased brother, John W. Craven.

Frank Sample, of Lacy creek, has been suffering with a catarrh on his right wrist for nearly two weeks, meantime suffering intense pain.

The Carrie Avenue Literary Society gave their program at the home of Ellis Johnson last Friday night, and Saturday afternoon they enjoyed a picnic at the Sulphur Spring.

Miss Dell Craven, who came up from Lexington to attend the funeral and burial of her father, returned yesterday to Lexington, where she is employed as a stenographer.

Prof. Roberts preached at Lacy creek Sunday. A number of town folks attended. Among them were Ellis Johnson and family, who took dinner at the home of the Misses Perkins.

The well drillers are getting along nicely with the well they are putting down on the Brewer farm at the foot of Laurel hill. They are about 500 feet and so far the indications are favorable.

Charley Hurt has been running the El Park Hotel at Torrent for Taylor Day for some time past, and Monday his family moved to Torrent to join him. Mr. Hurt is said to be a first class boniface.

Dr. A. C. Nickell and Dr. Taylor Center, of our town, attended the meeting of the Red River Valley Medical Association held at Torrent Thursday and Friday of last week, and report a fine time.

A number of our young people enjoyed a social at the home of Prof. Roberts Monday night, given in honor of Miss Lola Ambrose, of Berea, who is spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. Roberts.

The rainstorm Sunday was a very heavy fall and the wind did some damages, blowing down two or three apple trees for Joe Rose, on Lacy creek, and twisting his standing oats so it will be hard to harvest.

Circuit court began at West Liberty Monday. Charley Cecil and wife, of our town, are attending and at the same time visiting relatives. Mr. Cecil has a brother there and Mrs. Cecil has two sisters.

If you want a fine razor—as good as you can buy for $2—call this at office and get one for $1. We also have a few watches, good time keepers, that can be had for $1 each. Don't wait until supply is gone.

Some of the young people on Lacy creek are trying to get up a play, the benefits to the church at Johnson schoolhouse. "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" has been mentioned and if they can get enough to take the parts it will be selected.

Miss Lula Evans, who has been teaching in the High School at Honaker, Va., for two years past, is home to spend her vacation. As will be remembered the paper published in the county where she teaches recently had a very flattering notice of her accomplishments, all of which she deserved.

Dr. A. M. Laird, the dentist, after a very successful sojourn in our city, left yesterday morning for Stanton, and we take pleasure in being able to recommend him to the citizens of our sister town as a gentleman and an adept at the art of fixing teeth or fitting artificial ones. He will probably return in 30 days.

John W. Fields, of Ezel, has invented a spur for which a patent is pending that is calculated to prove a good thing for horseback riders, and will probably make him a rich man. The spur, unlike those in present use, is attached to the stirrup, can be closed out of the way or put into play in a second.

Kentucky has 88 less places in the government service at Washington than it is entitled to. On May 29 the total number of appointments in the apportioned service was 9,912. On the basis of its population, according to the census of 1900, Kentucky was entitled to 275 of such appointments under the law, while only 187 appointments from this state have been made.

KENTUCKY KERNELS

Carefully Collected and Concisely Chronicled.

Congressman Langley last week appointed Young Caudill, a nephew of Judge Amos Davis, as a cadet at West Point academy.

An oil well recently drilled in about three miles south of Louisa was shot last week and is pronounced a paying well. It is in the Berea sand and 1705 feet deep.

Charles L. Hughes, a prominent lumberman of Louisville, killed himself at his home last week because he feared the ravages of tuberculosis were eating his life away.

George, the ten-year-old son of J. H. Hukill, of Lexington, was thrown so heavily from a horse that his tongue was split and four of his front teeth were knocked out.

Commissioner of Agriculture M. C. Rankin is sending out letters to farmers urging them to be present at the meeting of the Kentucky Good Road association to be held at Paris July 17.

State School Superintendent J. G. Crabbe was appointed by Board of Regents as president of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal at Richmond to succeed the late Prof. R. N. Roark.

Because John Payne, of Louisville, snored in his sleep so as to make a discord in an amateur singers' song at a musicale, Parolee Edwards cut his throat with a razor, but not dangerously.

The Owsley county grand jury, which has been investigating the killing of Daniel Beard, alleged moonshiner, by Deputy United States William Mays, of Beattyville, failed to return an indictment.

Mrs. Martha Withers has filed suit in Fayette Circuit court against the Lexington railway company for $25,000 damages, because of smoke, soot and cinders from the power house falling on "Fairlawn," her country home.

H. T. Wills and Eva See were married last week by County Judge J. H. Evans, in the county clerk's office at Winchester. The groom is 54 years old, while his bride is only 15. This is the fourth matrimonial venture of Mr. Wills.

After a thorough investigation of the case Governor Wilson refused to remit the state's portion of the $10,000 fine against the Indian Refining company for polluting the waters of Fikhorn creek with refuse oil. The state's share amounted to $3,000.

While oiling some machinery in the top of the elevator shaft at the Sunny Brook distillery, near Louisville, John Farrell lost his balance and fell six stories to his death. The body was terribly mangled with the terrible impact with the earth.

At Louisville last week a man on horseback rode up to a saloon door and held up the barkeeper, taking all the money out of his pocket and rifling the cash register. He then rode away while a number of people were passing along the street unaware of what had taken place.

William Wilder and John Welsh, of Spring Station, are negotiating for the purchase of Forkland farm of 80 acres on the Winchester-Lexington pike, belonging to the late Charles Leaser. It is their intention to start a thoroughbred breeding stud, embracing about twenty mares.

At Louisa the city council adopted a drastic ordinance prohibiting the use of tobacco in any form by minors in public places and forbidding any one to furnish tobacco or cigarettes to minors. The penalty for minors using tobacco is $10 fine and that of persons furnishing tobacco to minors from $25 to $100.

The first meeting of the Central and Eastern Kentucky league of postmasters, organized for the purpose of putting the postmasters of the third and fourth class in closer touch with another, was held in Lexington last week. The officers elected were J. A. Barnes, Owingsville, president; Miss Pearl C. James, Muir, secretary, and Miss Ida M. Baumer, Stamping Ground, treasurer.

The new $40,000 fraternity building, the joint property of the local Masons and Knights of Pythias, was dedicated at Winchester last week. Virgil P. Smith, of Somerset, Grand Master of Masons in Kentucky, presided in the Masonic dedication and T. G. Stuart, Past Grand Chancellor, proxy for the Grand Chancellor of Kentucky, presided for the Knights of Pythias.

A Government order has been received by the sawmills on the Kentucky River which, it is said, will be the cause of the Southern Lumber Company removing their plant from Valley View, and it will seriously affect the Standard Lumber Company, of Nicholasville, the Kentucky River Poplar Company at Valley View and the mills at High Bridge and Ford. The order is to the effect that all log booms must be removed, as they interfere with river traffic and work injury to the Government locks and dams. These plants employ several hundred hands.

Nervous Collapse

"I have traveled for thirty years continually. I lost a great deal of sleep, which together with constant worry left me in such a nervous state that finally, after having two collapses of nervous prostration, I was obliged to give up traveling altogether. I doctored continually but with no relief. Dr. Miles' Nervine came to my rescue—I cannot describe the suffering which this Nervine saved me. Whenever I am particularly nervous a few doses relieve me."

A. G. C. LIBBY, Wells, Me.

There are many nervous wrecks. There is nervous prostration of the stomach, of the bowels, and other organs. The brain, the kidneys, the liver, the nerve centers are all exhausted. There is but one thing to do—build up the nervous system by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Its strengthening influence upon the nervous system restores normal action to the organs, and when they all work in harmony, health is assured. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

CHAPTER VI.

WHEN John Douglas' uncle offered to educate his nephew for the ministry the boy was less enthusiastic than his mother. He did not remonstrate, however, for it had been the custom of generations for at least one son of each Douglas family to preach the gospel of Calvinism, and his father's career as an architect and landscape gardener had not left him much capital.

Douglas senior had been recognized as an artist by the few who understood his talents, but there is small demand for the builder of picturesque houses in the little business towns of the middle west, and at last he passed away, leaving his son only the burden of his financial failure and an ardent desire to succeed at the profession in which his father had fared so badly. The hopeless, defeated look on the departed man's face had always haunted the boy, who was artist enough to feel his father's genius intuitively and human enough to resent the injustice of his fate.

Douglas' mother had suffered so much because of the impractical efforts of her husband that she discouraged the early tendencies of the son toward drawing and mathematics and tried to direct his thoughts toward creeds and Bible history. When he went away for his collegiate course she was less in touch with him and he was able to steal time from his athletics to devote to his art. He spent his vacations in a neighboring city before a drawing board in the office of a distinguished architect, his father's friend.

Douglas was not a brilliant divinity student, and he was relieved at last when he received his degree in theology and found himself appointed to a small church in the middle west.

His step was very bright the morning he first went up the path that led to his new home. His artistic sense was charmed by the picturesque approach to the church and parsonage. The view toward the tree encircled spire was unobstructed, for the church had been built on the outskirts of the town to allow for a growth that had not materialized. He threw up his head and gazed at the blue hills, with their background of soft, slow moving clouds. The smell of the fresh earth, the bursting of the buds, the forming of new life, set him thrilling with a joy that was very near to pain.

He stopped halfway up the path and considered the advantages of a new front to the narrow eaved cottage, and when his foot touched the first step of the vine covered porch he was far more concerned about a new portico than with any thought of his first sermon.

His speculations were abruptly cut short by Mandy, who bustled out of the door with a wide smile of welcome on her black face and an unmistakable ambition to take him immediately under her motherly wing. She was much concerned because the church people had not met the new pastor at the station and brought him to the house. Upon learning that Douglas had purposely avoided their escort, preferring to come to his new home the first time alone, she made up her mind that she was going to like him.

Mandy had long been a fixture in the parsonage. She and her worse half, Hasty Jones, had come to know and discuss the weaknesses of the many clergymen who had come and gone, the deacons and the congregation, both individually and collectively. She confided to Hasty that she didn't "blame" a new parson for not wantin' to mix up wid dat ar crowd."

In the study that night, when she and Hasty helped Douglas to unpack his many boxes of books, they were as eager as children about the drawings and pictures which he showed them. His mind had gone beyond the parsonage front now, and he described to them the advantage of adding an extra ten feet to the church spire.

Mandy felt herself almost an artist when she and Hasty bade the pastor good night, for she was still quivering from the contagion of Douglas' enthusiasm. Here, at last, was a master who could do something besides find fault with her.

"I jes' wan' to be on de groun' de firs' time dat Mars Douglas and dat ere Deacon Strong clinches," she said to Hasty as they locked the doors and turned out the hall light. "Did you done see his jaw?" she whispered. "He look laughin' enough now, but jes' you wait till he done set dat 'ere jaw o' his'n, and dar ain't nobody what's goin' ter unsot it."

"Maybe dar ain't goin' ter be no clinchin'," said Hasty, hoping for Mandy's assurance to the contrary.

"What?" shrieked Mandy. "Wid dat 'ere sneakin' Widow Willoughby already a-tellin' de deacons how ter start de new parson a-goin' proper?"

"Now, why youse always a-pickin' on to dat 'ere widow?" asked Hasty, already enjoying the explosion which he knew his defense of the widow was sure to excite.

"I don't like no woman what's allus whingin' 'bout her clean soles," answered Mandy shortly. She turned out the last light and signed upstairs, trying not to whisper to the pastor.

John Douglas was busy already with pencil and paper, making notes of the plans for the church and parsonage, which he would perfect later on. Alas, for Douglas' day dreams! It was not many weeks before he understood with a heavy heart that the deacons were far too dull and uninspired to share his faith in beauty as an aid to man's spiritual uplift.

"We think we've done pretty well by this church," said Deacon Strong, who was the business head, the political boss and the moral mentor of the small town's affairs. "Just you worry along with the preachin', young man, and we'll attend to the buyin' and buildin' operations."

Douglas' mind was too active to content itself wholly with the writing of sermons and the routine of formal pastoral calls. He was a keen humanitarian, so little by little he came to be interested in the heart stories and disappointments of many of the village unfortunates, some of whom were outside his congregation. The mentally sick, the despondent, who needed words of hope and courage more than dry talks on theology, found in him an ever ready friend and adviser, and these came to love and depend on him. But he was never popular with the creed bound element of the church.

Mandy had her wish about being on the spot the first time that the parson's jaw squared itself at Deacon Strong. The deacon had called at the parsonage to demand that Douglas put a stop to the boys playing baseball in the adjoining lot on Sunday. Douglas had been unable to see the deacon's point of view. He declared that baseball was a healthy and harmless form of exercise, that the air was meant to be breathed and that the boys who enjoyed the game on Sunday were principally those who were kept indoors by work on other days. The close of the interview was unsatisfactory both to Douglas and the deacon.

"Dey kinder made me cold an' prickly all up an' down de back," Mandy said later when she described their talk to Hasty. "Dat 'ere deacon don't know nuffin 'bout gettin' round de parson." She tossed her head with a feeling of superiority. She knew the way. Make him forget himself with a laugh. Excite his sympathy with some village underdog.

CHAPTER VII.

MANDY had secretly enjoyed the commotion caused by the little circus rider being left in the parsonage, at first because of her inborn love of mischief and later because Polly had become second in her heart only to the pastor. She went about her work, crooning softly during the days of Polly's convalescence. The deep, steady voice of the pastor reading aloud in the pretty window overhead was company. She would often climb the stairs to tell them some bit of village gossip and leave them laughing at a quaint comment about some inquisitive sister of the church who had happened to incur her displeasure.

As spring came on Douglas carried Polly down to the sunlit garden beneath the window, and Mandy fluttered about arranging the cushions with motherly solicitude.

More days slipped by and Polly began to creep through the little, soft leaved trees at the back of the church and to look for the deep, blue, sweet scented violets. When she was able Douglas took her with him to visit some of the outlying houses of the poor. Her woman's instinct was quick to perceive many small needs in their lives that he had overlooked and to suggest simple, inexpensive joys that made them her devoted friends.

Their evenings were divided between making plans for these unfortunates and reading aloud from the Bible or other books.

When Polly gained courage, Douglas sometimes persuaded her to read to him, and the little corrections that he made at these times soon became noticeable in her manner of speech. She was so eager, so starved for knowledge that she drank it as fast as he could give it. It was during their talks about grammar that Mandy generally fell asleep in her rocker, her unfinished sewing still in her lap.

As spring came on Douglas carried Polly down to the sunlit garden.

When a letter came from Jim and Toby it was always shared equally by Mandy and Hasty, Polly and the pastor. But at last a letter came from Jim only, and Douglas, who was asked to read it, faltered and stopped after the first few words.

"It's no use my tryin' to keep it from you any longer, Polly," the letter began. "We ain't got Toby with us no more. He didn't have no accident, it's that. He just seemed to be a locoalin' like ever since the night we had to leave you behind. I used to get him warm drinks an' things an' try to pull him through, but he was always a-chillin' and a-schin'. If it wasn't one thing it was another. I done all I knowed you'd 'a' wanted me to, an' the rest of the folks was mighty white to him too. I guess they kinder felt how lonesome he was. He couldn't get no more laughs in the show, so Barker had to put on another man with him. That kinder hurt him, too, I s'pose, an' showed him the way that things was a-goin'. It was just after that he wrote the parson a-tellin' him to never let you come back. He seemed to 'a' got an idee in his head that you was happier where you was. He wouldn't let me tell you 'bout his feelin' rocky, 'cause he thought it might mebbe make you come back. 'She's diff'runt from us,' he was allus a-sayin'. 'I never expected to keep 'er.'"

Douglas stopped. Polly was waiting, her face white and drawn. He had not told her of Toby's letter because with it had come a request to "say nothin' ter the kid."

He felt that Polly was controlling herself with an effort until he should reach the end of Jim's letter, so he hurried on.

"The parson's promise didn't get to him none too quick," he read. "That seemed to be what he was waitin' for. He give up the night it come, an' I got him a little room in a hotel after the show an' let one of the other fellers get the stuff out o' town, so's I could stay with him up to the finish. It come round mornin'. There wasn't much to it—he just seemed tired an' peaceful-like. 'I'm glad he wrote what he did,' he said, meenin' the parson. 'She knows, she allus knows,' he whispered, meenin' you, Polly, an' then he was on his way. He'd already give me what was saved up for you, an' I'm sendin' it along with this.'—A blue money order for $250 had fluttered from the envelope when Douglas opened it.

"I got everything ready afore I went on the next day, an' I went up an' saw the little spot on the hill where they was goin' to stow him. It looked kinder nice, an' the digger's wife said she'd put some dowers on it now an' then. It was you what made me think o' that, Polly, 'cause it seemed to me what you would 'a' done. You was allus so daffy about flowers, you an' him."

"I guess this letter's too long for me to be a-sayin' much about the show, but the 'leap-a-death' girl got her'n last week. She wasn't strong enough for the job now. I done what I could for her outside the show, 'cause I knowed how you was allus a-feelin' 'bout her. I guess the 'leap-a-death's' husband is goin' to jump his job soon, if he gets enough saved up, 'cause him an' Barker can't lit it off no more. We got a good deal o' trouble among the animals too. None o' the snakes is sheddin' like they ought to, an' Jumbo's a-carryin' a sixteen foot bandage around that trunk o' his'n 'cause he got too fresh with 'Felix's' grub the other night, an' the new giraffe's got the croup in that seven foot neck o' his'n. I guess you'll think I got the pip for fair this time, so I'll just get on to myself now an' cut this short. I'll be writin' you ag'in when we hit Morgan-town."

"YOUR OLD MEVVER JIM."

Douglas laid the letter gently on the table, his hand still resting upon it. He looked helplessly at the little, shrunken figure in the opposite chair. Polly had made no sound, but her head had slipped lower and lower, and she now sat very quietly with her face in her hands. She had been taught by Toby and Jim never to whimper.

"What a plucky lot they are!" thought Douglas as he considered these three lonely souls, each accepting whatever fate brought with no rebellion or even surprise. It was a strange world of stoics in which these children of the amusement arena fought and lost. They came and went like phantoms, with as little consciousness of their own best interests as of the great, moving powers of the world about them. They felt no throes of envy, no bitterness. They loved and worked and "went their way."

For once the pastor was powerless in the presence of grief. Both he and Mandy left the room quietly, feeling that Polly wished to be spared the outburst of tears that a sympathetic word might bring upon her. They allowed her to remain alone for a time; then Mandy entered softly with a tender good night, and Douglas followed her cheerily as though nothing at all had happened.

It was many weeks before Polly again became a companion to Douglas and Mandy, but they did not intrude upon her grief. They waited patiently for the time when youth should again assert itself and bring back their laughing mate to them.
